

1. Literary sisters

These sisters may not have lived long lives or had a plethora of literary accomplishments, but their work left an impact on the literary world nonetheless. Charlotte (1816–55) was best noted for _____ Eyre (1847), which is widely considered a classic. Emily (1818–48) wrote Wuthering _____ (1847). It was her only novel but is held as one of the finest in the English language. Anne (1820–49) was a poet and novelist, and she wrote Agnes Grey (1847) and The Tenant of Wildfell _____ (1848).

They are the _____ sisters

2. Pioneers in travel and aviation

Wilbur (1867–1912) and his brother Orville (1871–1948) changed the history of travel and aviation with their achievements in the early 20th century. The brothers designed a printing _____ and built bicycles before turning their attention to aeronautics in the late 19th century. They are credited with the first powered, sustained, and controlled _____ flight, which occurred on December 17, 1903.

They are the _____ brothers

3. Storytelling brothers

Brothers Jacob (1785–1863) and Wilhelm (1786–1859) are famous around the world for their classic collection of folk songs and folktales. The brothers' collection is the earliest “scientific” collection of folktales and became a model for the collecting of folktales everywhere. They helped to popularize stories such as Cinderella, Hansel and _____, Rumpelstiltskin, _____ Beauty and Snow _____. But that's not all the brothers are known for: Jacob also did important work in historical linguistics and Germanic philology.

They are the brothers _____

4. Music and lyrics

Brothers George (1898–1937) and Ira (1896–1983) left their impact on the world of music. George, who wrote for Broadway and composed for orchestra and for piano, was one of the most-important American composers of all time. Some of his best-known works include the musical composition Rhapsody in _____ (1924) and the dramatic folk opera _____ and Bess (1935). Ira wrote lyrics. Some of his best known works as a lyricist are the song “Fascinating Rhythm” and Porgy and Bess.

They are the _____ brothers.

5. Funny family

Chico (1887–1961), Harpo (1888–1964), Groucho (1890–1977), Gummo (1892–1977), and Zeppo (1901–79) made waves on the American comedy scene during the early-mid 20th century, performing onstage and in the movies. The four oldest brothers initially formed the troupe until Zeppo replaced Gummo. The Marx Brothers eventually branched out into movies, making such films as Duck _____ (1933), A _____ at the Opera (1935), and A Day at the _____ (1937). Groucho had a particularly long career, which included a comedy quiz show, You Bet Your Life, that debuted on radio in 1947 before moving to television in 1950, where it ran until 1961.

They are the _____ brothers

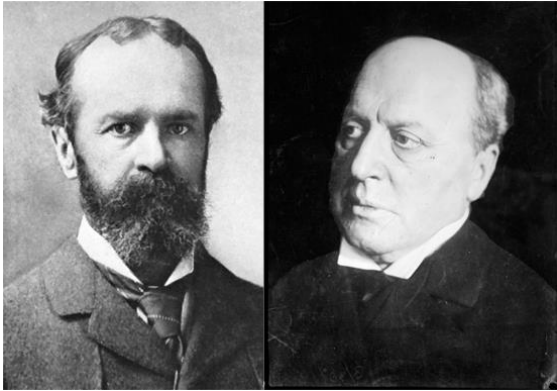

6. Tennis playing sisters have a ball

The world of women's professional tennis hasn't been the same since these sisters burst on the scene in 1990s, bringing a new level of athleticism to the sport. Venus has won several Wimbledon and U.S. Open titles. Younger sister _____ has racked up numerous French Open, U.S. Open, Australian _____, and Wimbledon titles. Both sisters have won Olympic gold _____ in women's singles and doubles.

They are Venus and Serena _____

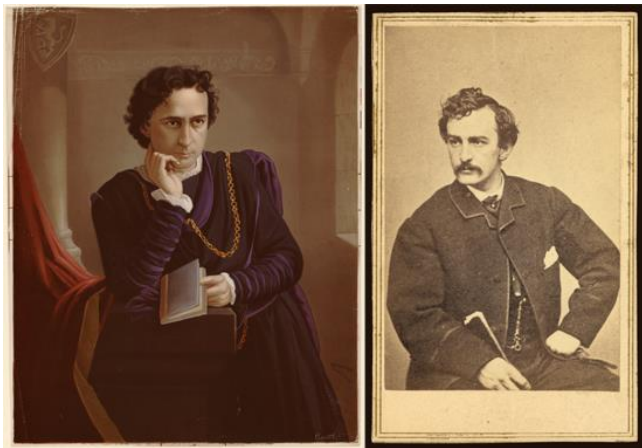

7. Literature, psychology and philosophy

These brothers left their mark on literature, psychology, and philosophy. Henry (1843–1916) was recognized as one of the most influential American authors. Some of his acclaimed novels include The American (1877), The _____ of a Lady (1881), The Bostonians (1886), and The Ambassadors (1903). William (1842–1910) was a philosopher and psychologist known for his prominence in the philosophical movement of pragmatism and the psychological movement of functionalism. He wrote the definitive and innovative book The Principles of Psychology (1890), a classic in the field.

They are Henry and William _____

8. An actor and as assassin

Edwin (1833–93) was a renowned stage actor in the United States who won acclaim for his portrayal of Shakespeare's Hamlet. His younger brother was also an actor and had notoriety stemming from theatre, but not from positive acclaim: John (1838–65) assassinated the 16th _____ of the United States, _____ Lincoln, at Ford's Theatre in _____ D.C., in 1865.

They are Edwin and John Wilkes _____

Answers

1. Jane Eyre / Wuthering Heights / The Tenant of Wildfell Hall / The Bronte sisters
2. Printing press / controlled aeroplane flight / The Wright brothers
3. Hansel and Gretel / Sleeping Beauty / Snow White / The brothers Grimm
4. Rhapsody in Blue / Porgy and Bess / The Gershwin brothers
5. Duck Soup / A Night at the Opera / A Day at the Races / The Marx brothers
6. Younger sister Serena / Australian Open / Olympic gold medals / Venus and Serena Williams
7. The Portrait of a Lady / William and Henry James
8. President of the United States / Abraham Lincoln / Washington D.C. / Edwin and John Wilkes Booth